

Ad Hellemons

POSITION: Assistant Commissioner
Dutch National Police Force
Director TISPOL

TISPOL is the European Network for Traffic Police. In TISPOL police forces from all EU M.S. and Swiss and Norway work together to improve road safety in Europe and to prevent and fight against road transport related crime.

TISPOL has established a Transport Security Working Group. This group aims at improvement of police cooperation along the main European road transport axes. By exchange of good practice, joint training and exchange of officers between the countries results can be improved. New technologies are a priority. One of the biggest problems is that governments and police forces still do not realise enough that the EU road transport system cannot be considered any more as a national phenomenon. Also the limitations in relation to the (international) exchange of data between police forces are a serious hindrance.

Ad Hellemons will be on the panel of the discussion on Day 2 of the conference.
